

I want to express my appreciation to this Court for staying the Course on the Posting of the Ten Commandments.

Susan Wheeldon and Janie Slaven did an excellent write up in the Newspaper concerning the Ten Commandments.

Quote: Matt Staver ... They are in a good position right now, because they know the displaying of the Ten Commandments is now constitutional ...the district court is left in a quandary. ...the 6th Circuit Court of Appeals has found the same display constitutionalWe already know that ...The only remaining question is the MOTIVATION ... The display is constitutional if you put it up and say nothing or if you put it up and say for educational reasons. Coffman has said ... it is possible to purge the taint of the impermissible religious purpose ... We have advanced in Ten Commandments litigation significantly in the last 5 years and I'm very pleased with the way this case has movedBoth the 6th Circuit ...KY OH Michigan ...and 7th Circuit Court of Appeals and the latest ...Federal District Court Judge Karl Forrester of Eastern District of Kentucky ruled that a display of the Ten Commandments placed together with other historical documents in the Rowan County Courtroom is constitutional. ...Matt ... at the end of the day, I have a high level of confidence that we can win the case. There is no question at the end of the day, this is a case that we will win
